Peacemaker Dies
Jungle Book
Zoom!

Blessed is the role of the peacemaker; but, also, it is a dangerous one.

Count Folke Bernadotte, nephew of Sweden's king and United Nations mediator for Palestine, was murdered yesterday in Jerusalem. Underworld elements did him in, even as he was struggling to extend the brief truce between warring Jews and Arabs into a permanent peace.

Persuasion hasn't accomplished much in Palestine. But it has accomplished even less farther north, where the Western Allies and Russia have been gloowering at each other for a couple of years over a bone called Berlin.

If these events shake your confidence in the abstract notions of law and justice and humanity that are written down in books remember that books stand for ideals, while their translation into accomplishment is a grim job that has baffled men for thousands of years.

I am re-reading Kipling's "Jungle Books", in which, like "Alice in Wonderland", the words are for children and the meaning for men—and some of the so-called jungle laws are as true today as when Kipling wrote them two generations ago, not to mention the fact that he wrote these truths from a tradition of living things that runs back to when the world began.

You read, for instance, that in the jungle law-and-order depended on a rare combination of the sharp tooth and the fleet foot. Considerable alone among all the people of the jungle were the monkeys—who forever talked of doing things, but left accomplishment to others.

That loud "Zoom!" over Hope this morning was a formation of four P-51's "buzzing" our town as a reminder that today, Saturday, September 18, is Air Force Day.

It's a reminder of other things too—that wars are never really won, nor peace secured, until a great nation resolves finally to keep up its fighting strength on a respectable basis.

Budenz Haymaker at Wallace Is More Serious Than Eggs

BY JAMES THRASHER

Henry Wallace has had a lot of eggs thrown at him in the last two weeks. But it's no egg that Louis Budenz has thrown in an article called, "How the Reds Snatched Power from the Communists." Collier's magazine. What Mr. Budenz has thrown looks more like a political haymaker.

The author is the former managing editor of the Communist Daily Worker. He tells his story from his experience as a Communist agent, and he has hatched the Wallace boom on orders from Moscow.

Something happened during Mr. Wallace's wartime visit to Siberia, he writes, that caused the Kremlin to send urgent directives to its American agents to support the ambitions. The orders were issued at a meeting in June, 1944, which Mr. Budenz says he attended.

The article goes on to say that Communists all over the country—not identified as such, but identified as Communist politicians with demands that Mr. Wallace be renominated for vice president in 1944. They conducted a similar campaign when his appointment as secretary of commerce was up for Senate confirmation.

Mr. Budenz says that he was at another Communist meeting in February, 1945, when a top boss named Trachtenberg told the National Board, "We have taken Wallace into custody." And in December, 1946, the Red periodical Political Affairs urged the Soviet Communist International policy.

Against such a background it will scarcely be enough for him to deny that he is playing the Communist game.

There is as little chance that Henry Wallace will be elected president in November as there is that the Communists will seize control of Washington tomorrow. But that is no reason to ignore the charges of Mr. Budenz.

Negro Veterans to Meet Monday at Yerger School

There will be a special meeting at Yerger High School Monday night, September 20 at 8 o'clock for all veterans who are interested in any type of education or training.

Representatives from the Veterans Administration will be present to explain all types of training open to veterans. All veterans are urged to be present.

Prescott Proves Troublesome to Bobcats

Prescott Curley Wolves served notice last night that they are going to be plenty troublesome given a few games under their belt and worried Hope's Bobcats plenty before losing 25 to 0 before a large crowd.

The Wolves were fairly powerful defensively but were unable to get within striking distance last night. Their best bet offensively was a one-pound halfback Peachey, while Orrer was the line's power house.

The Hope team, still lacking that necessary blocking, didn't push over the first tally until early in the second quarter. It was Sutton and Britt practically all the way for Hope with Bobcat swiftness going for long gains time and again. Sutton made three Hope touchdowns and Britt scored the other.

Expecting a breather the Bobcats ran into a pretty hefty bunch of boys who fought to the finish but were unable to handle the Hope backs. Prescott could do nothing with the Bobcat line and had to resort to passes for practically all their yardage.

The Bobcats play El Dorado here next Friday night.

Port Smith's Grizzlies have an early lead in the title race of the state high schools blue chip division—the Big Six or Triple A division of the Arkansas Athletic Association football setup.

The first game of the Big Six Conference—played for the state's six larger high schools—the Port Smith crew defeated El Dorado 12-7 last Friday night.

Two other Big Six members won non-conference games. Hot Springs breezed in 39-0 over basketball, a District Four Class A outfit, and North Little Rock nipped Canine High of Little Rock, a District Five Class A crew, 6-0.

The two other members, Little Rock and Pine Bluff, handily defeated nonconference foes in early night.

El Dorado lounced last week by Class AA Blytheville broke in front of Port Smith, but the Grizzlies took advantage of two fumbles, one on the three-yard line and one on the 32, to score twice.

It took a 43-yard trip by Carlton Combee for North Little Rock to shade Catholic High, but in Hot Springs, Coach Joe Dildy in his debut, used 36 players in taking Mansfield.

In an inter-division Double A clash, Russellville served notice on division rivals with a 12-0 victory over Van Buren, which had held Port Smith's Big Six entry 7-6 the week before. Halback John Beyer scored one Russellville touchdown on a 70-yard jaunt.

Stout Subino Academy bowed to Texarkana 13-6 in another inter-division Double A contest.

Three other Double A teams took on Class A foes and two had rough going. Camden nosed out Warren 13-12 and Blytheville defeated Paragould 10-7. Hope had an easier time downing Prescott 25-0.

In Class A scraps, Magnolia, division titlist, romped over Gordon 21-6 in a District Seven game. Conway, District Five winner last year, dropped another inter-district encounter to Malvern 10-0.

Eudora took on Class B Dumas and was held to a scoreless tie and Clarksville defeated Class B Daranelle 13-0.

In the B division, Dermott defeated...

The Five Eltons

In offering the patrons of 3rd District Livestock Show, the 5 Eltons, it is a known fact, that this is the only 5 people Aerial act of its type in the United States, and is possibly the most imitated act of its kind in the outdoor show world. This act consists of four girls and one man, doing unusual and novel routines at a height of 75 feet, without any net or safety device, and these that are interested in thrills, will definitely get it when they witness the performance of the 5 Eltons, who will appear at Fair park for five days, starting Tuesday at 2 p. m.

Queuille to Ask French Assembly for Confidence Vote

Paris, Sept. 18 —(UP)—The French cabinet today authorized Premier Henri Queuille to demand a vote of confidence in the national assembly of the government's 1,000,000,000 franc tax and finance bill.

The cabinet took only 10 minutes to agree on staking the life of the Queuille's government on a confidence vote when the drastic economy bill, which toppled three previous cabinets, comes up for public debate this morning.

Queuille won a swift early victory in the assembly by demanding and receiving approval for immediate discussion of the economic measures.

The vote was 404 to 181. Queuille hoped, by forcing a shutdown with his government's existence at stake, to bring his coalition parties into line in support of the highly unpopular economy program.

Queuille reportedly planned to warn the assembly that rejection of the program would mean still another government crisis, bankruptcy and perhaps the end of France's fourth republic.

Rejection also probably would mean the United States would use the French government use of 15,000,000,000 francs in American aid under the European Recovery Program now held in blocked accounts here.

Mule, Snake Fight All Washed Up

Walnut Cove, N. C., Sept. 18 —(UP)—Stokes county's mule-and-snake fight was pretty well washed up today.

The snake had disappeared, and Martin Mitchell, who claimed he was the real owner of Moby Dick, the kickingest mule in the county, had joined the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Mitchell said Moby Dick really belonged to him rather than to W. T. Schaffer, the blacksmith who said he would match the mule against a carnival boa constrictor.

Mitchell said Schaffer took Moby Dick Thursday, telling him he wanted to have some pictures of the mule made.

Mitchell said he heard about the mule-snake match Friday. "It was just a cheap publicity stunt," he declared.

Meanwhile, Carnivalman Bill Page—owner of the boa—refused to tell where he had taken the snake. The match was arranged after Page, owner of the Mighty Page Shows Carnival, told spectators his snake could eat animals. A group of skeptical farmers challenged him to pit the boa against Moby Dick.

Meanwhile, this mountain town rang with rumors that the fight would take place in a hidden spot in the woods instead of at the carnival grounds, to prevent the law from stepping in.

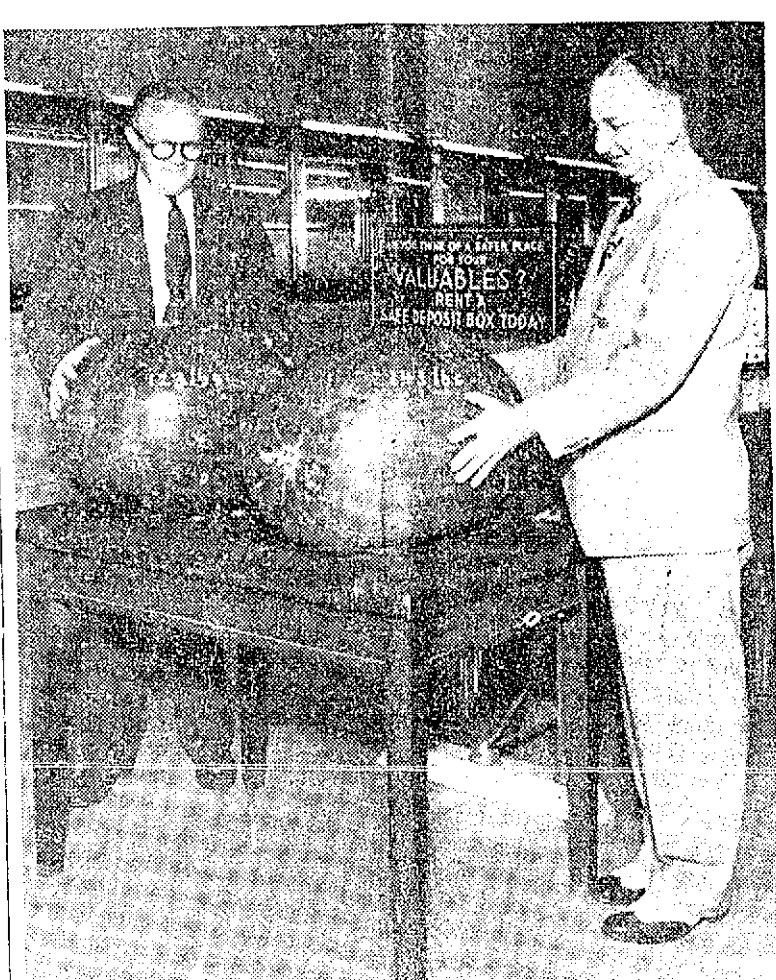

Page and skeptical farmers hereabouts arranged the death-battle after a side-show barker had plugged his show featuring a "serpent that swallows animals."

The farmers reportedly had a pot of more than $3,000 in tobacco money ready to bet on "Moby Dick," the kickingest mule in Stokes county. "Carnival folk were said to be ready to meet it with bets on the snake."

Gov. Gregg Cherry said yesterday that he didn't think such battle would take place in the state. "What chance would a mule have against a snake?" he asked.

But in Raleigh, State Zoologist, E. B. Meacham was inclined to Continued on Page Four

266 Lbs. Melon in Two Pieces

Shown above are James C. Wilson, president of the First Bank and Trust Company, right, and W. C. Horley, vice president, left, with two prize watermelons grown by A. J. Middlebrooks of Hope, Ark., birthplace of Wilson. The melons will be on display for days after which they will be cooled and served to the employees of the bank.

Hope is the birthplace of J. C. Wilson, president of the bank. The melons were obtained through his friend, former U. S. Senator Lloyd Spencer, president of the First National Bank of Hope.

These melons are the largest ever seen in this area and have created a great deal of interest among customers of the First Bank and Trust Company. Wilson stated that the general public is invited to come in and see the melons. He says the "texture and flavor of the melons are the very best though of extremely large size."

The melons will be on display for ten days or two weeks, after which they will be cooled and served to the employees of the bank. Wilson said he is "sorry there is not enough to serve a slice to the public in general."

HSTC Students to Teach in Hope

Miss Lenelle Goza and Mrs. Patricia Johnson, both students at Henderson State Teachers College, Arkadelphia, arrived in Hope Thursday, September 16, to work in connection with the home economics department of the Hope High School as part of their teacher-training program.

They will remain for the duration of nine weeks during which time they will be observing classes, working up units, and getting experience in teaching classes under the supervision of Mrs. Hamilton Hagan, home economics instructor at Hope High School.

Miss Goza is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Goza of Arkadelphia. Mrs. Johnson is the daughter of Mrs. W. A. Raymond of Mabelvale. They will reside at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ched Hall on North Louisiana during their stay in Hope.

Storm Delays Honeymoon of Socialite

St. Pierre, Fla., Sept. 16 —(UP)—The dream honeymoon of Socialite Frances Hitchcock and her coal town bride suffered another delay today when their plane was forced down at an abandoned air strip here by a heavy rain and windstorm.

The 39-year-old sportsman and his 24-year-old wife were on route to Miami yesterday to catch a flight to South America when the storm forced them to land at "St. Louis Airport," a former navy field near here.

They hitchhiked three miles into town and spent the night at a local hotel "until the storm blows over."

Hitchcock and his third wife, the former Stephanie Saja, took off from Deland, Fla., yesterday despite small-craft storm warnings posted along Florida's east coast. The bridegroom had cracked up his private plane several weeks ago and it had just been repaired.

The couple telephoned Miami to cancel yesterday's reservations at Rio de Janeiro and make new reservations for the 4:15 p. m. EST flight today.

The storm, with driving rain and 25-mile per hour winds, threw another hitch into the wedding and honeymoon plans of the couple, already beset by numerous complications.

Their wedding was first delayed when Hitchcock's divorce from his second wife did not come through on schedule. A state's attorney was considering possible perjury action against the wedding social.

Hope Affected by Telephone Rate Increase

Little Rock, Sept. 18 —(AP)—The Arkansas Public Service Commission has Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's rate increase petition under advisement, but Arkansas customers may pay higher rates in the meantime.

A motion for a temporary rate increase was granted by the PSC yesterday at conclusion of a four-day hearing on the telephone company application. The new rates go into effect Monday.

The company offered to post bond to insure refund of any excess charges between the temporary increase and the permanent rate which the commission will grant, but it was not required.

On the basis of rates proposed in the original rate increase application and an amendment to include additional services, the company estimated the increase would cost customers $1,000,000 annually.

Near the conclusion of the hearing, however, it was estimated that because of additional customers, the proposed rates would produce an additional $1,020,000 annually, exclusive of the federal excise tax.

The amount of the temporary rate increase was not immediately determined. The company agreed in conference with PSC staff members to make no immediate rate increase for magnetic or magnetic type telephone exchanges, and to make no changes in the Fort Smith-Van Buren and Berryville-Rogers toll situation.

The temporary rates authorized correspond to the exchange rates proposed in the company application. Rates increases for single party residence phone service will include:

Seaway $2.25 to $2.75; Arkadelphia $2.25 to $2.75; Malvern $2.50 to $2.75; Magnolia $2.50 to $2.75; Paragould $2.25 to $2.75; Hope $2.50 to $2.75; Helena $2.50 to $3.00; Camden $2.50 to $3.00; Blytheville $2.50 to $3.00; Jonesboro $3.00 unchanged; Fayetteville $2.75 to $3.00; Hot Springs $2.50 to $3.25; Pine Bluff $2.50 to $3.25; Fort Smith $3.00 to $3.25; Little Rock $3.50 to $4.00.

Probers to Question Red Teacher

Washington, Sept. 17 —(AP)—The House Un-American Activities committee said today Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kasenkina will be questioned at a public hearing in New York next Wednesday.

Mrs. Kasenkina, a former Russian school teacher who jumped from a window to escape from the Soviet consulate in New York last month. Her testimony is wanted in connection with the committee's investigation of Soviet espionage in this country.

Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) said a subcommittee would question Mrs. Kasenkina at House.

Carmen, Killed and Revived More Times Than Vaudeville, Suffers Again in the Movies

By HAL BOYLE

New York, Sept. 18 —(AP)—The movies have stuck another shiver in poor Carmen's cold, dead, female knife cushion in literature.

For more than a hundred years now this Spanish gypsy wench, has been giving men's hearts a wrench on the printed page, on the operatic stage, on film, and over the radio.

She has been killed and revived more often than vaudeville. Every time she expires — from a knife thrust through the heart by her lover — it isn't blood, but a shadow, that moves her back to life for the next scene.

This durable girl has had quite a history. Prosper Merimee, the French writer, scribbled her story in 1845 for three reasons — to praise his greatest love, his great friend, and because he needed to buy a pair of pants.

It was essentially the story of a beautiful gypsy lass with the morals of a monk who changed her ways as often as she did her coat. She lived a simple soldier's life from his duty, got him to join a band of gypsy smugglers and bairns and got her bosom vented by the soldier's dagger when she tried to give him the double switcheroo for a handsome bull fighter.

The tale hit the jackpot, and made enough for Merimee to buy a thousand pairs of trousers. And Carmen has been paying off ever since. No woman that ever lived ever paid more for her wickedness. At least none ever paid off more people.

Bizet based his famous opera on Merimee's story, and the "Tosca" song "only added to Carmen's international renown.

But this gay little bad girl really hit her stride after Thomas Edison's invention of the flickers. Since 1910 Carmen has been in 15 films seen by American audiences and about a dozen foreign pictures made for home distribution.

Among earlier celluloid Carmens were Gladstone Brown, Theda Bara and Dolores Del Rio. All in the old cinema era. The latest is Rita Hayworth, starring too well at the boxoffice.

Germans Tell of Red Uranium Mining

Nuernberg, Germany, Sept. 17 —(AP)—Two Germans who escaped from the Russian uranium mines in Saxony, looking beaten and worn after only a few months work said today 20 Germans died there daily.

The two are Willy Schmidt, 38, and Horst Geilert, 22.

They said they were forced into the mines, at Aue, in Saxony, where more than 100,000 Germans are employed in what amounts to slave labor.

How they escaped is a secret. Schmidt and Geilert said they had to work in the mines because they refused to join the Communist party. They gave this picture: Each man must dig three cubic meters of the daily whether it takes eight hours with the primitive tools or 16. Scientists examine the hard rock for uranium, basic substance in the atomic bomb.

The mines have no water pumps nor elevators. The men are given only open flame lamps. Explosions occur regularly. Blast fuses distributed are so short that the man who lights them must be lowered on a rope, then hauled up rapidly. Sometimes he doesn't make it.

Airforce Day Observed Over Nation

Washington, Sept. 18 —(AP)—One year old today, the independent U. S. air force flexed new precision muscles for the home folks.

Marked the air arm's first anniversary as a full equal of its elders the army and navy. From their boss, National Defense Secretary Forrestal, the airman had an official "well done."

B-29 superfortresses thundered across the country from takeoff points around the world, and giant B-36s toured the nation on non-stop trips from a Texas base.

The air arm's new weapons wraps off some of its newer weapons, including four experimental jet fighter planes. Speakers in scores of cities described air power's job in national defense. Air fields held open house so taxpayers could take a look at some of the things their dollars are buying.

Forrestal, in a Washington address last night, said "air power is peace power. It is secret, and it is abroad, who charged that United States defense preparations in a dangerous world add up to 'war mongering'."

Referring to these defense measures, Forrestal asserted: "No sane person, whether he lives in the United States or any other country, can entertain the idea that we are taking these steps because we like the prospect of air power world conflict."

He denounced charges that big business, labor and military leaders want war. He contended that "of all the elements in the community that desire war, business and labor are the paramount forces of opposition."

Forrestal said war is "counter to every principle of business enterprise, while for labor it means unpleasant restrictions such as

Tells Ferguson to Attend to Own Business

Washington, Sept. 18 —(UP)—Attorney General Tom Clark suggested bluntly today that Sen. Homer Ferguson, R., Mich., mind his own business and let the justice department handle all communist and espionage cases.

In a sharply worded reply to Ferguson's challenge that he prosecute all known Communists in and out of the government, the attorney general said:

"I would appreciate it if you would quit trying to claim credit for the work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Department of Justice, and keep your political activity out of the field of serious prosecution of offenses under federal statutes."

Ferguson, who is chairman of a special senate investigating committee, said yesterday that the Justice Department has sufficient evidence in its files right now to proceed against communists in six major cities. He named Washington, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Salt Lake City and Dallas.

Hinting broadly that his department is already preparing to seek indictments against Communists in some of the cities mentioned, Clark criticized Ferguson for disclosing "most confidential criminal matters."

"Your indefatigable desire for headlines in this regard," Clark told the senator, "is very detrimental to the prosecution of important cases."

Further Justice Department officials said U. S. attorneys are ready to go before federal grand juries in several cities, perhaps next week, to seek indictments against a number of alleged Communists once employed by the government. They will be charged, it was said, with concealing their Communist affiliations to remain on the government payroll.

Meanwhile, a house un-American activities subcommittee, looking for evidence in its secret investigation of Red spy activities, the group has promised to reveal a "shocking chapter" in Communist atomic espionage activities within the next few days.

Candidates Seek to Get Farm Votes

By Joseph Nolan

United Press Staff Correspondent

President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey stepped up their efforts today to win the support of the nation's farmers.

The president planned to expand on the Democrat's farm program at Dexter, Ia., this afternoon in the first major speech of his current campaign swing through the West. He will expand on the "no more crack" the Republican congress for failing to approve his recommendations.

Gov. Dewey went on record as wholeheartedly in favor of the farm legislation passed by the 80th Congress, including its price support program. He also attacked administration of "intentional fabrication" in attacking GOP farm policy.

The Republican standard bearer scoffed at Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan's charge that the Republican party would weaken the price support program.

"That charge," said Dewey, "was created out of thin air and was designed to deceive producers of American agricultural products."

A firm program of price supports at reasonable levels will benefit both producers and consumers.

Dewey made his statement after conferring in Albany, N. Y., with the chairmen of the Senate and House Agriculture committees.

In Denver, Brannan stuck to his guns. The reaction of American farmers, he said, had forced Dewey to give "minimum lip service to price supports for farm products."

H. L. Mitchell, president of the National Farm Labor Union, promised that his organization would "leave no stone unturned" to insure Mr. Truman's election.

"It is unthinkable," he said, "that the farm people of this nation will again entrust their welfare to the forces that bankrupted them under Republican administrations."

Folks Show Appreciation of War Hero

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 17 —(UP)—The folks back home today showed Yngve Carroll, 24-year-old paratrooper veteran, the kind of country he fought and nearly died for.

Carroll had his doubts yesterday. He hobbled into court here, charged with receiving $75 unlawfully from the government under the service men's readjustment act.

Court attendants helped steady his slight frame when he stood to receive sentence. Federal Judge Albert V. Ryan told them to "bribe him, please."

person to keep house for," she remarked. "No cigarette ash scattered about, no laundry to send away, no—"

She stood still, looking down at the seat of the armchair under the dining table. A book lay there—a book she had never taken off the shelf. And the loose silk cushion was crumpled down into the corner against the arm.

"Wrong again," said Hilary unhesitatingly. "I'm getting careless. I meant to put it back."

Believe me, Hilary, Sabrina, she told herself, he can see you. She have as though it was not unusual of him to leave things lying about. Be tactful, Sabrina.

Almost automatically she reached for the cushion and plumped it and set it back in place. Then, more slowly, she picked up the book he had been reading. It was black, with its title in gold letters—"True Ghost Stories."

"We haven't read this one, Muffin," she remarked very casually, and only her eyes betrayed her. Large and brightly blue, were languid lids. "I wonder if it's any good."

"Well, I didn't find it very helpful," Hilary admitted, adoring her gameness. "I was hoping to learn something about the technique. The trouble is, they all take their haunting so seriously. It's too bad I haven't got some chains to rattle!"

She searched the shelves briefly and returned the book to the empty space it had left, then went on with her dusting, silent and very thoughtful.

The misplaced and forgotten book was the third tangible evidence of his actual presence in the room, without counting Muffin's behavior. And each time the same sufficient evidence pervaded her, which contained no element of fear. Each time too he seemed almost to emerge a little from invisibility.

The days went by uneventfully, and she kept house for him. No dust collected on the polished surfaces of his mahogany, and cushions were always shaken up and set by the ears at the proper housemaid's angle. He found that if he persistently left the same book off the shelf she would read it. Or sometimes she had already read it. Muffin.

And Hilary, watching her, knew that he was in love with this little carthing, as surely and as deeply as though he had come back while in his man's body and found her living here in his home—a love so strong and inevitable that even death had not robbed them of each other. A mistake had been made somewhere and one bullet got away to drop him in the desert. Then reputation was swept away, as far as it could go. He had returned to Nons Farthing, and slowly the distance between them was narrowing, by her instinctive trust and faith in him, by his increasing comprehension of himself as he lived.

She was wrapping up the faded flowers neatly in the newspaper to take away downstairs. She put the newly filled vases back in their places, and took a dust-cloth out of the desk drawer.

"I must say he's a very tidy man," she remarked appreciatively.

"The seventh and eighth grade room had a labor room meeting Wednesday morning, September 15. Margaret Watkins took charge of the room, as moderator, until Sarah June Eiter was elected president. Other officers elected were Paul Stuart, vice-president, and Margaret Watkins, secretary-treasurer. It was announced that the seventh and eighth grade room was a dollar for having the most mothers at P.T.A. There were more parents present than there are students in the room. No further business appeared, so the meeting was adjourned."

Homewrecking Mother

A letter comes to this column from a young man who signs himself "DISTRUGHT." He writes: "Isn't there some way to make mothers see that when their children get married they want to live alone? Can't they be made to understand that the greatest favor they could ever do Mary and Johnny is to give them a chance, when they get married, to become adjusted to each other without a lot of parental interference?"

"My mother moved in with us as soon as we were married and now after only two months of wedlock, my wife has left me because of Mother. Mother says to me: 'Don't worry, dear, I can take better care of you than your wife could.'"

"And she doesn't see that a man needs his wife more than anything on earth, and that she is ruining two lives by wrecking a marriage that could have been a great success?"

Probably there is no other problem in the world that is harder to solve, and that brings so much unhappiness to so many people, and that breaks up so many homes, as having Mother come to live with the newlyweds. And that is the case whether it is the bridegroom's mother or the bride's mother. It is just that not even the Postage Building is big enough to hold two women who are trying to run the same house and bring up the same man.

Nor can any mother keep her fingers out of her children's pies.

Patronizing
What complicates the situation is that so many mothers who are first aid to their children's divorce are good, kind souls who think they are conferring an inestimable favor on their children when they go to live with them. Mother is sure that Mamie would be so lonesome if she were left alone with no company but her husband.

Mother feels she is being so helpful if she takes over Sally's housekeeping. And Mother simply oozes virtue when she darts son-in-law's socks.

And, although Mother has been over the same road herself, she doesn't remember that when she was a bride how she wanted to monopolize her husband, and how she resented all advice, and how her own mother or her mother-in-law got on her nerves by always treating her as if she were a moron.

It seems a cruel thing to say that the mothers who adore their children and who desire above all things their happiness, man the home-wrecking crew and do more to promote divorce than any other one thing. For Mother is right on the spot to call Johnny's attention to what a poor cook his wife is, or to pity Sally because she can't afford to have a new dress. And when Johnny and Sally have their little spats, as all young couples do when they are settling down into marriage, Sally will weep on Johnny's shoulder and Johnny will call himself a brute and they will kiss and make up and no permanent harm will be done. But with Mother on the ground to pity her poor darling son or daughter, another marriage that should have been a happy one ends in disaster.

When mothers insist upon going to live with their children when they marry, because they do not want to live alone and because their heartstrings are wrapped around a son or daughter, it is not easy for the young people to say "no" and get Johnny's attention to what a poor cook his wife is, or to pity Sally because she can't afford to have a new dress. And when Johnny and Sally have their little spats, as all young couples do when they are settling down into marriage, Sally will weep on Johnny's shoulder and Johnny will call himself a brute and they will kiss and make up and no permanent harm will be done. But with Mother on the ground to pity her poor darling son or daughter, another marriage that should have been a happy one ends in disaster.

Hence mothers should be unselfish enough to take the initiative and refuse to become burdens on their children. It would save a lot of trouble if they did.

If those charges are not disproved, they must reflect that except for late and conservative Democratic politicians, Henry Wallace would have been president for the last three years—a president in the custody of a hostile power's agents.

Many loyal Americans supported Mr. Wallace's nomination in 1944. A lot of them have changed their minds about him since then. But some of them are still gullible. The accusations of Louis Budenz, a former Communist insider, will give the gullible the rude awakening and the warning that they need—unless Mr. Wallace can show convincingly that those accusations are false.

Tacoma, Wash., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The man they still had to catch to day in the $12,500 Tacoma open golf tournament was slender Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans.

BOY DROWNS
Stuttgart, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A seven-year-old boy drowned at Preston Ferry on the White River near here late yesterday.

He was Joe Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Robertson, of Casscoe in Arkansas county.

Tracks on the banks indicated the boy walked into the river while his father worked on a new-by construction project. The body was found on the edge of the river after it had been in the water about an hour.

"I didn't want to take anything from the government that I didn't have coming," he said, "but I had to support my wife and child."

He said he was allowed 60 per cent disability, and at one time only 30 per cent. His job at the naval base here pays only $31 weekly because he can work only part time.

A voice from the back of the court room cut in: "Hell, they owe him money." Another voice said quietly, "Let's start a subscription."

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. 40 SUBMITTED BY FIFTY-SIXTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE SENATE OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS AND BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, A MAJORITY OF ALL THE MEMBERS ELECTED TO EACH HOUSE AGREEING THEREON: That the following is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas, and upon being submitted to the electors of the State for approval or rejection at the next general election for Representatives and Senators, if a majority of the electors voting thereon, at such an election, adopt such amendment, the same shall become a part of the constitution of the State of Arkansas, to-wit:

SECTION 1. Amendment No. 11 to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas is hereby amended to read as follows:

The General Assembly shall provide for the support of common schools by general law, including an annual per capita tax of one dollar, to be assessed on every male inhabitant of this State over the age of twenty-one years; and school districts are hereby authorized to levy by a vote of the qualified electors respectively thereof an annual tax for the maintenance of schools, the buildings and equipment of school districts, and the retirement of existing indebtedness, the amount of such tax to be determined in the following manner:

The Board of Directors of each school district shall prepare, prove and make public not less than sixty (60) days in advance of the annual school election a proposed budget of expenditures deemed necessary to provide for the foregoing purposes, together with a rate of tax levy sufficient to provide the funds therefor, including the rate under any continuing levy for the retirement of indebtedness. If a majority of the qualified voters in said school district voting in the annual school election shall approve the rate of tax proposed by the Board of Directors, then the tax at the rate so approved shall be collected as provided by law. In the event a majority of said qualified voters voting in said annual school election shall disapprove the proposed rate of tax, then the tax shall be collected at the rate approved in the last preceding annual school election.

Provided, that no such tax shall be appropriated for any other purpose nor to any other district than that for which it is levied.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler

Copyright, 1947

By King Features Syndicate.

New York, Sept. 16—In a Washington essay released among a well-known line of editorial cautions, the bland, incidental remark that "several Catholics had raised large funds to elect Matthew M. Neely who is trying to displace Chapman Revercomb as United States senator from West Virginia," Senator Revercomb is a Republican. Neely is a Democrat and a New Dealer from way back in the palatial version of that predatory cult.

Senator Revercomb was assigned by the Senate in the regular course of business to study the problem of homeless or displaced persons. He traveled in Europe and was responsible for the bill which President Truman condemned as discriminatory. Many Catholic authorities repudiated the president's ardent waving of the banner of religious passion in their behalf. He traveled in Europe and was responsible for the bill which President Truman condemned as discriminatory. Many Catholic authorities repudiated the president's ardent waving of the banner of religious passion in their behalf.

As to the fairness or unfairness of the bill toward displaced Jews, Europe there could be no honest debate. The European department of Justice had abolished the classification of Jews as such on the ground that Jewishness was exclusively a religious quality. The United States does still take some note of the racial character of immigration out of a lingering but vanishing respect for old and wise verities against jungle savages, Pacific head-hunters and dog-eaters and orientals.

Frankly, we barred the primitive out of sheer ethnic bigotry. We didn't like their manners or their cuisine and they had B. O. We barred the Japanese and Chinese because experience had shown that they would work harder and better than less food and less pay than the native, thin-lipped native Americans and would do us out of our country.

Hitler had laid it down that Jewishness was not a matter of religion but of race. Most Americans, including the Gentiles, agreed with those scientists who rose to point out that members of many races are Jews.

This abolition of the classification of "Jew" or "Hebrew" by our Department of Justice was endorsed by all who held that the religion of an applicant for a visa to come to the United States is of no interest, except he belong to some sect which holds with polygamy or cannibalism. In such cases we would desire to exclude on the ground of moral turpitude, not though I don't know how we would go about learning about these idiosyncrasies when we forbid ourselves to raise the question of religion.

At any rate, this abandonment of the classification made it impossible to keep account of the number of Jews who were admitted after a certain date. You could say that a single Jew was let in thereafter because name was so identified. Actually many have come in and have been made pleasantly welcome. But nobody can prove how many. You can say millions or none and still be right because legally for the last five years there is no such person as a Jewish immigrant.

Two years ago, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, was beaten by the power of money sluiced into this Western American state by rich and powerful interests in New York and Hollywood. Wheeler too literally Roosevelt's promise "again and again and again" that American boys would not be sent to fight in foreign wars. New York who supplied the money wanted the United States to intervene and some of them were Communists whose only purpose was to send American high schools boys to die instead of young Russians.

We have laws forbidding corporations to swing elections and the Taft-Hartley law was intended to do the same thing to unions but was frustrated by the sordid convenience of the Department of Justice with the C. I. O. and the United States court. The purchase of elections by money has been condemned as bad business in principle, however, by all elements of our politics.

Some states can be swung by a few thousand dollars applied to the precinct or district where a balance of power occurs. If we let this be done some rich fellow in New York or Hollywood would sweep the votes of the losing candidate, possibly millions of them with only one vote apiece.

But now how about this business of sending money into West Virginia or any other state to swing the election of a candidate who takes a stand favorable to some element of foreigners in a foreign land?

That is the gist of the statement offered as news by this Washington feature and with a sprinkling of editorial pleasure, told as though it were a good thing for the United States of A. The article takes a swipe at Senator Revercomb, calling him "pompous" in a juvenile flourish from the nonplus tripping of a Chinaboy Henry (Ph-Yo) Lavee. That is an opinionated adjective plainly intended to justify amendments to the immigration and naturalization laws and a fair sample of the blackguarding that gets by as ethical journalism in Washington.

The "groups" mentioned in this Washington salami which "raised large funds" to elect Senator Revercomb for doing his duty as an American government officer are interested in nothing but the welfare of Europeans of certain categories. So these Europeans have the power of the vote in West Virginia and may nullify the political convictions of all the American citizens who will vote for Revercomb.

Stalin could swing enough states to swing the country if this kind of corruption of elections is allowed to grow.

"Have you any proof?"

"Certainly or I wouldn't say it."

He refused to say what the proof was and indicated on his return to the U. S. which will be soon he intends to write some kind of article about it.

The "proof" according to Rapp, established that Bormann made a deal with the Russians a long time ago. He said Bormann was known as a left-center Nazi and, as such, was distrusted by other Nazi chieftains. Hitler elevated him to Rudolf Hess' job as deputy fuhrer after Hess fled to England.

From investigations, he said, he also is convinced that the German army made many mistakes on the Russian front because Bormann deliberately gave the wrong information to Hitler.

Bormann was condemned in absentia by the international tribunal set up to judge war criminals. But since the fall of Berlin he has been seen by any reasonable authority.

Sain, Spahn Are Keeping Braves Out in Front

By CARL LUNDQUIST

New York, Sept. 18. — (UP) — Borrowing a trick from an old St. Louis card deck, Manager Billy Southworth of the Boston Braves was pulling away from other National League contenders with the greatest one-two pitching punch since Dizzy and Paul Dean were in their prime.

Southworth, an old Cardinal himself, is using Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn on virtually all every other game basis and if they arms don't drop off, he probably will pitch them about the same way in the World Series.

Since Sept. 6 the Braves have won eight out of nine games and seven of the victories belong to the "S" boys. What's more they started and finished all but two of those games. That's just about the same formula that Frankie Frisch used in the 1934 season when Dizzy Dean won 30 games and Paul won 19. Only that era of Gashouse Gang baseball, Frisch went one better by using the Deans to relieve each other on frequent occasions.

Dizzy pitched in 50 games, worked 312 innings, hit 50 batters in 39 games and worked 233 innings. The marks of Sain and Spahn compare favorably, particularly since each may get three or four more starts before the season ends. Sain was reeled by 37 games and worked 275 innings while Spahn, has made appearances in 32 games and worked 257 innings. Sain has a record of 21 wins and 14 defeats while Spahn has a 14-16 level.

Yesterday with Sain holding second place Pittsburgh to eight hits, striking out five batters, and walking nobody, the Braves scored a 6 to 2 victory. Mike McCormick set the hitting pace with a double and Sain pitched a perfect game, turning in a 14-0 shutout.

The Cards moved into a second place tie with the Pirates by defeating the Dodgers, 4 to 2, at Brooklyn as Stan Musial made three home runs, including an Enos Slaughter and Erv Dusak also turned in fielding gems to back Howie Pollet up brilliantly.

Johnny Vandermeer of the Reds won his 15th game for one of his best seasonal records, beating the Giants, 5 to 3 on seven hit pitching. Ted Kluszewski hit a homer and two singles while Virgil Stallcup also homered for the winners.

Homers by Gran Hammer and Dick Ehnis produced a four-run fifth inning rally as the Cubs beat the Cubs 6 to 3 at Philadelphia to stay barely ahead of the seventh place Reds.

The Red Sox stayed one game in front of the Yankees in the American League race, clinching a 9-3 decision over the Browns at St. Louis with a three run rally in the fifth.

Moving out in front with six runs in the opening inning, the Yankees came to a 13 to 5 victory at Philadelphia, with Johnny Lavelle, Phil Rizzuto and Tommy Henrich hitting homers. Pat Mullin and Hoot Evers homered for the Tigers.

Bobby Feller, continuing his late season comeback, struck out 11 batters in a 9-3 decision over the Senators at Cleveland. Feller was Washington's 17th consecutive defeat, three short of a league mark.

The Philadelphia Athletics came up with five runs in the ninth to beat the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 6. Veteran Wally Horowitz received credit for the triumph and Howie Judson was the loser.

velt hospital, where she is recovering from injuries suffered in her leap.

Thomas said doctors will permit three newspapermen to attend the hearing.

"She has some material we believe will be of interest to the committee," Thomas said.

Mrs. Kasenkina was questioned by Chief Committee Investigator Robert E. Stripling shortly after her leap from the consulate created an international incident.

As a result, John J. Daniel, Soviet consul in New York, was recalled by the Russian government at request of the State department. President Truman subsequently revoked Lomakin's papers, under which he was permitted to serve as consul in this country.

The State department promised asylum in the United States for Mrs. Kasenkina who said she did not want to return to Russia.

The consul in New York today questioned Harold H. Velde, of Postville, behind closed doors. Velde is county judge of Tazewell county, Ill. He told newsmen he had been employed by the FBI in San Francisco in 1943, 1944 and 1945 and is acquainted with some of the principals in the committee's current spy inquiry.

Zale, Cerdan Only Top Fighters on Tuesday Card

New York, Sept. 18. — (UP) — The fist doubleheader, slated for next Tuesday night at Jersey City today was re-scheduled as a single contest involving Tony Zale and Marcel Cerdan for the world's middleweight title.

The co-featured bout, which was to bring together Jersey Joe Walcott and Gus Lesnevich, was cancelled yesterday when the latter was found suffering from a broken toe.

The Tournament of Champions, Inc., which will promote the card at Roosevelt Stadium, failed last night to dig up a substitute opponent for Walcott and announced that a preliminary bout would be scheduled instead.

Lesnevich, former world's light heavyweight champion, broke the title toe of his right foot Thursday when he slipped and fell while descending the steps of the post office at Cliffside, N.J., his home town.

College Play Opens Today on Wide Front

By BEN PHLEGAR

New York, Sept. 18. — (AP) — The college football season opens on scattered fronts today.

Three of today's intersectional scraps — Texas A. & M. Villanova, L.S.U., Texas and Texas Christian—Kansas—would look good any late fall Saturday. In addition, the Pacific Coast, Southern and Missouri Valley conferences present games that count in their standings.

Idaho is at Oregon State and Washington State is at U. C. L. A. for conference games. California, starting its second season under Lynn Waldorf, plays host to Santa Clara, in past seasons a power among the coast independents. Sunday's Clipping Gulls open Sunday at home against Loyola of Los Angeles. In other West Coast games today Santa Barbara plays at Oregon and San Jose State at Stanford.

In the Southern Conference, George Washington and Wake Forest get things underway at Wake Forest. The University of Richmond plays a non-conference night game with Randolph-Macon. Missouri Valley action begins with the improved Oklahoma Aggies at Wichita, Iowa State of Los Angeles before 55,211 fans. The outmanned Utes held the Trojans to a scant 7-0 advantage at the half, but were unable to stand up under the superior reserve strength in the final two periods. Missouri Valley College of Marshall, Mo., extended its winning streak to 23 games by whipping Bethany (Kans.) College, 26-0.
